A DYNAMITE OUTRAGE.

A Fiendish Attempt to Kill a Man And His Family.

Governor of Soldiers' Home at Leavenworth the Intended Victim.

His Wife Had Miraculous Escape—House Wrecked—Arrest Made.

Leavenworth, Kansas, June 11. An attempt was made upon the life of Gov. Andrew J. Smith of the National Soldiers' Home, and his wife and daughter, between 4 and 5 a. m. today by some person who is yet unknown.

Dynamite was employed in the outrage and the explosion badly damaged the Governor's residence.

Mrs. Smith had a miraculous escape from death, the center of the explosion being directly beneath her bed chamber. Besides being cut and bruised by broken glass and flying brick-a-brac and furniture, she was completely prostrated by the frightful shock and is now in a precarious condition.

Gov. Smith and his daughter, Miss Daisy, occupied rooms on the second floor and were far enough removed from the explosion to escape the serious consequences suffered by Mrs. Smith.

Joseph W. Oliver, a honorably discharged veteran, has been arrested by the police of this city. He said he was sorry the explosion had not killed the governor.

AT THE EXPOSITION.

President and Party Grooted with Enthusiasm at Nashville.

Nashville, Tenn., June 11. The President was heartily cheered when he reached the exposition auditorium. Mrs. McKinley, much to the regret of everyone, did not feel equal to the heat and stress and remained in her room at the hotel. Mrs. Alger, Mrs. Gary and the Misses Gary were in the first line of stand guests. J. W. Thomas, president of the exposition company, was seated at the President's left and Commissioner H. Clay Evans was to the right of the line.

Gov. Taylor, of Tennessee, and Gov. Bushnell, of Ohio, with Mrs. Bushnell entered as the band closed the opening overture and were heartily cheered. The Governors then took the places by the President, reserved for them.

Hon. John W. Thomas, president of the exposition, was master of ceremonies. He was very brief but extended the heartiest of welcomes to the President, to the members of the cabinet, to Gov. Bushnel and the visiting Ohioans and the representatives of the press.

Mr. Thomas then introduced Gov. Taylor, of Tennessee, as "our Bob" and his appearance was the signal for loud cheers.

Governor Taylor was followed by Hon. W. L. McCarthy, mayor of Nashville, and Senator W. Clark, president of the Centennia commission.

After a musical interlude, Gov. Asa S. Bushnell, of Ohio, was then introduced. When Gov. Bushnell was in the middle of his speech vociferous cheers from the rear of the auditorium heralded the approach of Mrs. McKinley. The vast audience cheered until it seemed tired out, but commenced again with renewed vigor when a large bunch of fragrant flowers was handed to Mrs. McKinley, who bowed her acknowledgment. When the applause that followed Gov. Bushnell's peroration had subsided, President Thomas introduced the great figure of the occasion and Mr. McKinley's face lit upon the and enemy rose en masse and shouted cheer after cheer. For several minutes the cheering went on and the President could only stand and smile and wait.

At last quiet came and in a clear, penetrating voice and more gesture than is his wont, the chief executive delivered an eloquent speech.

Applause was frequent during the speech and hearty at all times, but it reached a climax when the references to the preservation of the union was made. At the conclusion of Mr. McKinley's speech a hickory cane, unadorned, but sturdy and made from wood grown on the Hermitage was presented to the President by C. M. Dickinson, on behalf of the Ladies' Hermitage Association.

The ceremonies in the club house being concluded the President and party went to luncheon at the West Side Club on the grounds in front of the administration building.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Commander Mullan Demands Court Martial.

Washington June 11. Secretary Long today ordered the trial by court martial of Commander D. W. Mullan on a charge of drunkenness. Commander Mullan was in command of the Pensacola navy yard at the time the charges were current and demanded a court of inquiry. This was ordered with the result that the charges were sustained.

The department was willing to let the matter end there, but he officer did not care to let the record stand against him in that fashion, as it would operate against him when he comes up for promotion the latter part of this month, so he demanded a court martial and this demand has been granted.

Commodore Norton, commandant at the Washington navy yard, will head the court which will meet at the navy yard here next Wednesday.

[illegible] PROGRESS.

Created by Adjustment So Far for Permanent Peace.

Sultan Not Yet Decided About Evacuation of Thessaly.

Turkey Appeals to the Powers for Support in Negotiations.

Further Adjournment of Peace Conference—Greeks Stirred.

Constantinople, June 11. A further adjournment of the peace conferences has been agreed to at the request of Tewfik Pasha, the Turkish minister for foreign affairs, on the ground that the Sultan has not decided the question of the retention or evacuation of Thessaly by the Turkish troops.

The other points brought forward as a basis of the arrangement of permanent peace between Turkey and Greece with the exception of the amount of the indemnity have been practically settled.

The adjustment has created a bad impression in diplomatic circles.

Turkey has issued a circular to the powers with the view to obtain their support in the peace negotiations; but thus far Russia alone has replied, expressing the opinion that the question of the indemnity and the capitulations appear less difficult to settle than the delimitation of Thessaly. This reply is regarded in Turkish circles as justifying the hope that Russia will support the retrocession of Thessaly, but this opinion is not shared by the members of the foreign diplomatic corps in this city.

Rumored Assassination.

Athens, June 11. The Hestia says the rumors of the attempt to assassinate M. Delyannis arose from the fact of his having saluted some acquaintances in the street who abused him vehemently for plunging Greece into disaster.

The paper adds: "Public exasperation against M. Delyannis is so intense that his return to office would, surely, lead to disturbances."

DISRUPTION OF THE CHURCH.

Bishop Cheney and Others Resign and the Trouble Waxes Serious.

New York, June 11. The heated debates in the general council of the reformed Episcopal church of the last two days over the kind of surplice the clergy will wear was concluded today by the adoption of the black gown.

Following the vote, Bishop Cheney of the synod of Chicago resigned from all committees and from "any other place I may hold by the authority of the general council." Several other clergymen resigned from committees and a number of laymen signified that they would withdraw support from the church.

Bishop Follows, the chairman, with tears in his eyes, said: "It seems to be the beginning of the end."

The disruption of the church is a possibility.

REVIEW OF TRADE.

The Gain in Business Continues at a Distinct Rate.

New York, June 11. R. G. Dun & Co. in their weekly review of trade will say:

The gain in business continues, not without fluctuations, and at the best moderate, but yet distinct. Indications of the volume of business are seen in clearing house exchanges, which for the week exceed last year's 8.7 per cent., and in railroad earnings, which amount in the United States alone to $34,703,087 on roads reported by Dun's review, for May 3.3 per cent. larger than last year and 3 per cent. larger than in 1892.

Wheat looks well and the best trade authority now estimates the yield at 516,000,000 bushels, with many state and railroad returns to support it.

The outlook is steady, and since March has been 16,046,382 bushels, against 10,115,421 last year and yet western receipts have kept fairly ahead of the exports. Neither cotton nor woolen mills can expect other than a waiting business with a change of tariff impending, but the demand for bleached goods is steady though moderate, for print cloths slightly better at 2.44 cents plus 1 per cent. and for print cloths good, though not active. Brown goods are dull, though quotations are unchanged. Some large woolen mills are preparing to increase output and have bought heavily.

Sales of foreign wool at Boston alone having reached 6,310,600 pounds out of 8,368,600 sold of all kinds at the three chief markets. A somewhat better order demand for woolens is reported, especially in medium and high priced goods and fancy worsteds without change in prices. The boot and shoe industry had also taken large orders including several thousand cases boots and brogans about up to the average, with numerous small orders for men's buff and increasing for men's heavy shoes, while for women's shoes, finest works have orders for three months.

Prices average about half of one per cent. lower for the week, while leather is unchanged, and hides again advanced an average of 1.8 per cent. at Chicago.

Iron furnaces in blast June 1 reported a weekly output of 108,380 tons, against 170,528 May 1, and in unsold stocks exclusive of the great steel companies, an increase of 11,013 tons for the month to 1,050,252 tons.

Failures for the week have been 262 in the United States, against 240 last year and 30 in Canada against 27 last year.

Bradstreet's Review.

Bradstreet's tomorrow will say: Notwithstanding cool wet weather, which checked the distribution of seasonable goods, disappointment at the restriction of distribution of merchandise in the spring and early summer is giving way to hopefulness for the fall trade.

Business is better than a year ago.

The volume is larger and there are more people employed than before last Presidential election. Jobbers are beginning to report fair orders for fall delivery. Manufacturers of woolens are more hopeful.

The outlook for higher prices is stimulating the demand for both raw and manufactured products. Corn prospects in Oregon and Washington, where rain is needed, continue favorable.

Gross railway earnings for May make the best showing for any month since last summer. Total earnings of 127 companies with 97,000 miles of road aggregate $33,258,703, again 5 over May a year ago of 9 per cent. The increase in April over a year ago was only 3 per cent. and March 1.7 per cent.

This week's total bank clearings, $1,008,582,016, shows an increase of 12 per cent. over last week and of 7 per cent. as compared with the like week one year ago.

[illegible] SESSION.

Sugar Amendment Carried in the Senate Friday.

Vote Was 32 to 30, One Democrat Voting with the Republicans.

A Day of Hot Discussion on Important Question of Sugar.

Some Long Speeches, Democratic Charges and Answers.

Washington, June 11. The first test vote on the sugar schedule was taken in the Senate late today, resulting in the adoption of the Republican caucus amendment changing the House rate to 1.63 per pound by the close vote of yeas 32, nays 30.

The affirmative vote was made up of 29 Republicans, 1 Democrat, McEnery (La.), one silver Republican, Jones (Nevada), and one Populist, Stewart (Nevada).

The negative vote was made up of 23 Democrats, 3 Populists and two silver Republicans.

It was the closest vote thus far taken on an issue of importance and was accepted as showing that any amendment having the sanction of the caucus was assured of adoption.

Mr. Caffery took up the question as to the amount of raw sugar required to make a pound of refined sugar. It was a well known fact, he said, that all the secret processes of sugar refining were known only to the refiners. He questioned the calculations made by the Treasury Department and said their accuracy was challenged by competent chemists.

Mr. Allison remarked that the government figures were regarded as accurate as a whole.

Mr. Caffery said one reliable expert stated that the government figures were taken from the trust officials, who had exclusive control of the information and this expert asserted that the estimates were far too high as to the amount of raw sugar required to make a pound of refined sugar.

The Secretary read a corrected statement showing that on each grade of sugar the treasury figures were several pounds in excess of the corrected figures.

Mr. Caffery went on to say that a countervailing duty of 33-100 on the German granulated sugar was ample protection to the American refiners. The trust was constantly besieging Congress for favors. "The sugar trust," said he, "is the only gigantic trust in the world which rests entirely on leg slation for its support."

Mr. Platt (Rep., Conn.) aroused Mr. Caffery to another indignant protest against the repeated imputations thrown out from the other side that he wanted protection for the sugar producer.

"Your position," said Mr. Platt, "is free trade for the refiner and protection for the producer."

"I have stated and I repeat it again," replied Mr. Caffery, "that sugar is the ideal article for a Democratic revenue duty. If it were for protection I should not advocate it."

Continuing, he taunted the Republicans, after their experiment with the sugar bounty under the McKinley law, for going back to sugar for a real revenue producing duty. "And then," said he, "they have the audacity to throw in our faces the insidious doctrine of protection." He had never, he said, owned a single share of that company and was only in a very small way a sugar planter.

"How much sugar did you produce last year?" asked Mr. Platt.

"About 200,000 pounds," replied Mr. Caffery, "from a farm of 500 acres. I am the smallest planter in my parish, but I say to you that if all my fortunes were involved in a sugar crop I would not support it except for revenue. A public man who was connected with the narrow line of a selfish interest is not fit to hold a seat in the U. S. Senate."

Upon the conclusion of Mr. Caffery's remarks Mr. White (Cal.) took the floor. He arraigned the Republicans for their advocacy of this sugar schedule.

From the debate on the Wilson bill he read the remarks of various Republican Senators denouncing the sugar schedule in that bill, which, Mr. White said, was not half as advantageous to the trust as the proposed schedule. He quoted Mr. Platt, of Connecticut, Mr. Chandler, and Mr. Allison. The latter had said, in the remarks quoted, that if he (Allison) could have his way, he would strike from the bill every vestige of protection for the trust. When he quoted from Mr. Gear, of Iowa, he and the Iowa Senator were drawn into a sharp exchange about the way prosperity lagged behind its predictions. Mr. Gear declared that prosperity would come when the tariff bill was passed.

One of Mr. Aldrich's expressions as to the effect of the sugar duty on the poor man's breakfast table was cited by Mr. White in mocking tones. The attitude of Messrs. Lodge, Morrill, Platt, of Connecticut, and others on the Republican side severely criticising the sugar rates of the Wilson bill was reviewed by Mr. White, with sarcastic side remarks on consistency. There was much amusement over one quotation from Mr. Aldrich, arraigning the Democratic Senators for being controlled by an "ironbound caucus rule."

Mr. White remarked that the "present caucus rule on the Republican side showed that the Democratic Senators had very distinguished imitators." When the sugar Republican expressions were compared with Republican actions today, said Mr. White, there was little astonishment that the era of confidence had not yet set in. It was a strange spectacle to see Senators legislate in the interest of a trust which it had unparalleled denounced. It would seem that debts were being paid to those creatures of inordinate power and at least strength enough to make good which had been made.

Mr. Gorman (Md.) then spoke against the schedule and the entire bill, pointing out that its effect was to burden the people without opening up to the United States new foreign markets.

Mr. Stewart (Nev.) asked Mr. Allison to state before the vote was taken whether this bill gave the refiner greater advantage than the present law.

"I have no doubt," answered Mr. Allison, "that excluding the countervailing duty, this bill does not give a greater advantage to the sugar industry than the Wilson bill."

Mr. Allison proceeded to make a general statement. He said that those farsighted orators had been discussing decimal figures and statistics without considering what lies at the basis of this and all schedules. "We have been taunted with the bounty of 1890," said he, "and we hear Senators on the other side say they will support a sugar duty on the theory that it is a tax for revenue only.

"I wish to disclaim any responsibility for this duty as a revenue duty. If that were the only objects it should not have my vote. I don't believe that if we were establishing a revenue system on imports alone that sugar should bear such a proportion of the burden as is imposed in this bill."

Mr. Allison pointed out the changed condition since 1840 when sugar earned a duty of 30 per cent. In those days, in the days of his boyhood, very little, pure white sugar was seen. Now no sugar comes on the table of high or poor that had not gone through some process of refining. The refining industry in this country was entitled to some protection.

He then explained the House and Senate schedules. The House proposed a schedule beginning with one cent on sugars testing 75 degrees and increasing 3-1000 of a cent for each degree above that. "It might be difficult for a layman to follow the intricacies of a schedule, but to the expert it was easy. The increase for each degree was due to the increased value of the sugar." He himself had believed a portion of the duty should be ad valorem, but the House schedule was specific and those who believed in protection generally favored specific duties.

The Senate schedule increased the duty on refined from 1.87 in the House bill to 1.95.

"Do you believe in protection to labor or to capital?" interposed Mr. Tillman (S. C.).

"There is a generality," replied Mr. Allison, "to which the Senator well knows my answer. I believe in protection to American labor, but I believe in paying American capital also from foreign capital."

"Mr. Havemeyer in his testimony," said Mr. Tillman, "said that only 25,000 men were engaged in the sugar refinery industry. Yet you propose to give the refiners a differential which amounts to between $10,000,000 and $20,000,000 for the protection of 25,000 men."

It was the policy of this bill, replied Mr. Allison, to do what Europe had done—establish the production of sugar in this country and keep the $100,000,000 annually paid for sugar by our people at home. Were it not for that he would advocate a revenue duty of 40 or 45 per cent. Recalling the criticism of the Republicans for their abandonment of the bounty system, Mr. Allison said that system had been adopted to encourage the sugar industry. It had failed first, perhaps, because of the rapid and unexpected strides made in both the beet and cane growths, and second, because the Democratic party decided to do nothing to encourage the system.

This was an agricultural industry. The schedule would succeed and fail as it succeeded or failed to establish the beet sugar industry in this country. The schedule might not be arranged precisely as it should be, but it was confessedly within a fraction of other schedules. If Senators on the other side could show that there was an injustice he would, he said, try to deal with it in a spirit of justice.

Mr. Berry (Ark.) again reverted to the contaminating influences of the sugar trust and urged that the Senate by its vote put an end to the scandals surrounding this subject. Now was the opportune time, he declared for Republicans to make good their professions for four years ago against the trusts.

Mr. Stewart said he did not expect this tariff bill to afford any material relief to the country, as there was a cancer of home at contraction which was eating at the vitals of the country. The Senator added that he was for the bill, because he wanted the people to know it would not bring prosperity "any more than a fried and milk poultice could bring asphyxia."

Mr. Caffery replied briefly to Mr. Allison and then the vote was taken amid great excitement, resulting yeas 32, nays 30.

Yeas—Allison, Burrows, Carter, Cullom, Davis, Deboe, Elkins, Fairbanks, Foraker, Frye, Gallinger, Hanna, Hansbrough, Hawley, Hoar, Jones (Nev.), McBride, McEnery, McMillan, Mason, Nelson, Perkins, Platt (Conn.), Pritchard, Proctor, Sewall, Shoup, Spooner, Stewart, Wellington, Wetmore, Wilson—32.

Nays—Bacon, Bate, Berry, Butler, Caffery, Chilton, Clay, Cockrell, Daniel, Faulkner, Gorman, Gray, Heitfeld, Jones (Ark.), Kyle, Lindsay, Mallory, Mantle, Mills, Mitchell, Morgan, Pasco, Pettigrew, Rich, Pettus, Tillman, Turpie, Vest, Walthall, White—30.

Mr. Jones (Ark.) then moved an amendment striking out the words "on all sugars" in line 20, page 63. In this connection he again pointed out inequalities of the schedule. The amount of protection under the pending amendment was greater, he said, than it was in the original committee amendment, being 32 100 now against 44 then. As it was now five o'clock Mr. Jones asked that the amendment go over.

Mr. Hoar gave notice of a new section for the appointment by the President of a commission of five to investigate and report at the next session of Congress on the most advantageous methods of producing and refining sugar and what method will give to consumers sugar at the least cost.

At 5.10 the bill was laid aside and the Senate adjourned soon after.

A TREATY OF ALLIANCE

Between Russia and France will Be Signed During President Faure's Visit to Russia.

London, June 12. The Paris correspondent of the Times says:

"I am in a position to affirm that a definite treaty of alliance will be signed during M. Faure's approaching visit to Russia by the Emperor Nicholas, President Faure, Count Muravieff, the Russian foreign minister, and M. Hanotaux, the French foreign minister.

"The treaty, whose terms have already been settled, will be one of the most laboriously constructed instruments of its kind.

"Ever since 1895 this has been in process of construction. Two Czars and three French Presidents, with their respective ministers have been working on it, the negotiations often being suspended owing to deaths, resignations and similar causes of interruption."

But Will They Get It?

Portland, Me., June 11. Among the York heirs who are claimants to some of the most valuable real estate in the city of New York are four in this city, Rollin N. York, Capt. A. J. York, C. A. York and Edward H. York. The York heirs are descendants of the Duke of York. When Charles II was king of England he granted to his brother James all the territory where New York City now stands, then occupied by the Dutch and surrendered to the English Sept. 8, 1664. Besides the American metropolis here is a valuable estate in England comprised in the claim.

"If distributed among the claimants the proportionate part of the many millions of dollars would range all the way from $150,000 to $200,000."

Whig and Courier

BY BOUTELLE BROTHERS.

All business letters should be addressed to Boutelle Brothers, and communications intended for publication should be addressed, "Editor of Whig and Courier."

SATURDAY, JUNE 12, 1897.

One of the amusing features of the New York campaign is the attempt of the World to speak for "honest Democrats and honest Republicans." Political honesty is the last question the World should undertake to discuss. It has no familiarity with the subject.

The painters of the Harvard statue have been discovered and forced to tender their resignations. The matter was investigated by the students themselves with the result above announced. The names of the offenders were withheld, but the punishment was prompt and effective. It is gratifying to know that the students do not uphold this kind of vandalism.

One of the leading lights of the so-called new Republican silver party is a gentleman who is now forced to write "ex" before his name, because the Republicans of his district could not endorse his crazy currency notions. These renegades are not deadened to cut much of a figure in the political arena as an independent party. The Bryanites have prompted the silver fold and these masqueraders may as well unmask and join the Bryan procession first as last.

Democratic opinion of Mr. Wanamaker has undergone a rapid change. A few years ago these Democrats laid awake nights to coign words with which to express their condemnation of the merchant-politician, but now he has suddenly blossomed out as a statesman of exceptional ability and integrity. The reason for the change is to be found in the fact that Mr. Wanamaker, disappointed over the result of the Senatorial election, has of late manifested a disposition to criticise the Republican policy. It has yet to be recorded how much satisfaction he obtains from the approval of his present course by his former critics.

The merchants of Grand Rapids, Michigan, have been taken in so often by the various advertising schemes worked by hustling canvassers that the Business Men's Association has taken hold of the matter and has resolved hereafter to confine advertising to the newspapers. This is a good example for the merchants everywhere to follow. A merchant who appropriates a certain sum of money each year for advertising might as well burn that portion of it devoted to these schemes. He not only receives no return for the money thus invested, but is deprived to just that extent of the benefits he would receive from legitimate advertising in the papers. This is a practical problem for the merchants and one that has been practically dealt with in Grand Rapids.

In the course of the Democratic controversy over the tariff, Senator Bacon replying to Senator Caffery said: "The trouble about the Senator's argument is that he bases it upon a bald assertion that such a thing cannot be or that such a thing will be, and there is no evidence upon which the Senate can not which would bring us to the conclusion that he is correct." Continuing he said that the Senator from Louisiana accepted a disputed statement as a "conclusive, indisputable fact, and therefore he says his conclusion deduced therefrom must be correct." This is a favorite dodge with the free trader either in or out of Congress. They first make a false assertion and then proceed to build an argument upon it, but the people have been led to so much by these apostles of a false doctrine that no attention is paid to their comment, evidence of said fact being easily obtainable in the election returns of the campaigns in recent years.

About the most interesting publication at the present time is the Congressional Record. Our Democratic friends are becoming decidedly peppery in their remarks to each other. Here is an illustration:

Mr. Caffery. Mr. President, the Senator from Nevada (Mr. Stewart), in my opinion, has correctly characterized the position of the Senator from Georgia (Mr. Bacon) in his application or demand for a tariff upon cotton. He states that this tariff is bound to be protective, that the idea of revenue is incidental, the idea of protection is paramount.

Mr. Bacon. Does the Senator hold the same view with reference to the tariff on logs?

Mr. Caffery. I would gladly answer the Senator from Georgia, but on two occasions he has declined to answer my questions, and I decline peremptorily to yield to him.

Mr. Bacon. Well, sir—

Mr. Caffery. I do not want to be interrupted.

Mr. Bacon. I accept that status as between us with pleasure.

Mr. Caffery. You made the status yourself, and you must lie on your own bed.

Mr. Bacon. Very well. That is a deprivation which I shall endeavor to bear up under.

Mr. Caffery. I hope you will have the patience and fortitude to stand it. I am sure it will not disturb my equanimity one particle.

Pollet.

Senator Vest has talked more than any other Senator since the tariff bill was taken up. On each and every schedule he has elaborately impressed his free trade views upon his colleagues. The net result may be inferred from the following quotation from the Congressional Record, the schedule under discussion dealing with agricultural products:

Mr. Bate. I desire to state that I for one should like to have an opportunity to vote upon the question of the duties upon these necessaries of life, these cereals, particularly corn and corn meal. I do not believe in imposing a duty upon them. They ought to be free. I should like to have the minority of the committee, if they see proper to do so, move to put them on the free list, so that we who feel this way can put ourselves upon record properly.

Mr. Vest. I should vote for the Senator's motion if he moved to put it on the free list, but I am afraid we would be a little more lonesome than we now are.

Mr. Bate. I think we should try it.

Mr. Vest. I will stay with the Senator.

Mr. Bate. I shall be glad of your company.

Mr. Vest. But our votes on this side of the chamber are getting smaller and smaller.

The record vote was not taken, hence it appears that the effect of this free trade eloquence from the men who have all along insisted that there should be the fullest possible discussion, has been to make the Democratic vote "smaller and smaller." Senator Vest has not only been unable to convince anyone on the other side of the chamber, but has undergone the humiliation of seeing the Democratic vote dwindle to a point where he is disinclined to ask for the yeas and nays. In view of this confession it might occur to Senator Vest that the best way for him to serve the country is to subside altogether.

"The best doctors in Kansas City told me that I could live but a few days longer, and had an operation performed. I could not live," writes Miss Josie Hall, of Weber, Johnson Co., Kans. "The operation left me in a weakness, and each month I could get down in bed and suffer severely for weeks. For hours I could not keep anything on my stomach, for fear of vomiting. I was given up by doctors, friends of your 'Favorite Prescription' persuaded me to try it. I owe it all to your medicine. I can conscientiously recommend it to any suffering sister."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a safe, sure, speedy and permanent cure for constipation. They never gripe. One is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. All medicine dealers.

LOST IN THE FOG.

A Nova Scotia Fisherman's Hard Experience.

Thomas Rice, a shipwrecked sailor, arrived in Portland Thursday from Southwest Harbor after a most trying experience.

Rice was a member of the fishing schooner Curlew's crew and belongs in Digby, N. S., from which port the schooner sails. Last Saturday morning the Curlew was off Digby, N. S., and Rice went out in a dory to pull trawls. It was about seven o'clock in the morning when he started and half an hour later a thick fog set in and Rice started to row in the direction where he supposed the schooner lay. Though he rowed for half an hour or more Rice failed to find the schooner and the fresh breeze which was blowing kicked up such a sea that he was obliged to head his dory into the wind and exert himself to the utmost to keep her from swamping. All day Saturday with the wind blowing a gale in a thick fog and with the sea running very high Rice toiled at his oars to keep from being swamped. He had nothing to eat or drink all of this time and was well nigh exhausted at a quarter to three o'clock on Sunday morning when he sighted the American fishing schooner Morning Light, Capt. Henry C. Moore.

Rice was picked up by this schooner and carried into Southwest Harbor. While on board the American vessel he was kindly treated and cared for. On Wednesday Rice was sent to Portland and on his arrival went to the British vice consul's office where Mr. John B. Keating listened to his story and sent him to the Atlantic House. The sailor will be sent home by one of the International Steamship Company's vessels.

Pearsville folks are agitating the question of hiring a special officer who will see to it that the boys do not hang about the street corners in crowds evenings, sitting on the fences, breaking them down or else bending them out of shape. A widow has solved the problem in a measure by freshly painting her fence each evening. But the rest of the residents of Pearsville do not care to resort to this expense. They are, however, determined to rid themselves of the nuisance. If the regular officers on their beat cannot drive the boys off their fences they declare they will hire some special that will.

AT TENNESSEE EXPOSITION.

President McKinley and Party Arrived There Friday.

His Address and Patriotic Address at the Exposition Friday Afternoon.

Nashville, Tenn., June 11.—President McKinley and party arrived at 8 a. m. and were escorted to the Maxwell House by a squad of mounted ex-Confederate soldiers in uniform.

This afternoon he delivered an address at the grounds of the Tennessee Centennial Exposition. He spoke as follows:

Officers of the Tennessee Centennial Exposition, ladies and gentlemen:

American nationality conjured with that of Europe and the east still very young and yet already we are beginning to have age enough for centennial anniversaries in states other than the original 13. Such occasions are always interesting and when celebrated in a practical way are useful and instructive. Combining retrospect and review, they recall what has been done by state and nation and point out what yet remains for both to accomplish in order to fulfill their highest destiny.

This celebration is of general interest to the whole country and full of significance to those of the south and west. It marks the end of the first century of the state of Tennessee and the close of the first of the second century.

One hundred and one years ago this state was admitted into the union as the tenth member in the great family of American commonwealths. It was a welcome addition to the national household, a community young, strong, and sturdy, with an honored and heroic ancestry, with fond anticipations not only of its founders but of all the successes in the art of surveying and agriculture attendant in all parts of the country. I am justified in saying that these anticipations have been grandly realized, that the present of this community of sterling worth is even better than prophets of the past had dared to forecast it.

The builders of the state, who had forced their way through the trackless forests of this Canaan of a country, founded on resistance to oppression, which shows everywhere made illustrious the Anglo-American name.

Tennessee has sometimes been called the "Mother of Southwestern States." It furnished us the immortal Jackson, whose record in war and whose administration in peace as the head of the great republic shines on with the advancing years. The century has only added to the luster of his name, increased the oblique esteem of his countrymen, and exalted him in their affections. Polk and Johnson also were products of this great state, and many more heroes of distinguished deeds whose names will come up to direct to your memories while I speak.

Tennessee gave over twenty volunteers, not drafted, to arms. In 1846, when 2,400 only were called for, 30,000 Iowa. Tennessee offered their services, and amid the trials of terrors of the great civil war, under conditions of peculiar distress and embarrassment, her people divided on secession issues. But when she believed she had chosen, they fought fearlessly to death and gallant sacrifices. Now happily there are no contending sides in this glorious common union or in any part of the common country. The man who opposed each other in dreadful battle a third of a century ago are once more and forever united together under one flag in a never-to-be-broken union.

The glory of Tennessee is not alone in the brilliant names it has contributed to history or to the heroic patriotism displayed by the people in so many circles of our national life but its material and industrial growth, social advancement and population are striking and significant of the energy and development of the new south. Thirty-five thousand settlers in this state in 1790 had increased to 1,109,000 in 1860, and to lay it and a population closer by approximating 2,000,000. Its manufactures which in 1860 were small and unimportant in 1890 had reached $72,000,000 in value, while its farm products now aggregate more than $62,000,000 annually.

Your exposition shows better than any words can tell the details of your wealth and resources and power of production. You have done wisely in exhibiting these to your own people and to your sister states, and at no time could the display be more effective than now when what the country needs more than all else is restored confidence in itself. This exposition demonstrates directly your own faith and purpose and signifies in the widest sense your true and unfailing belief in the irrepressible pluck of the American people and is a trembling indication of the return of American prosperity.

The knowledge which this beautiful and novel exposition gives will surely stimulate competition, develop your trade, increase your output, enlarge your fields of employment, extend your markets and so ever finally pay for all its costs, as well as justify local sentiment and encourage state pride.

Men and women here about me from all parts of the country and thousands more will reasonably be here before the exposition is closed. Let ourselves and let them always remember that whatever differences about politics may have existed, or still exist, we are all Americans before we are partisans, and value the welfare of all the people above party or section. Citizens of different states, we love all the states.

The lesson of the hour, then is this—that whatever adverse conditions may temporarily impede the pathway of our national progress nothing can permanently defeat it."

Found Guilty.

Denver, Col., June 11.—After a two weeks' trial in the district court the jury returned a verdict of guilty in the case of Matt Adams, ex-clerk of the district court, on the charge of embezzling $10,000. Adams' flight from Denver about a year ago created a sensation. He was arrested in Southampton, Eng., after eluding the officers for several months.

Will Wind Up Its Affairs.

New York, June 11.—According to advices received from the state insurance department, the capital of the Norwood Fire Insurance Co., organized 40 years ago, and said to be controlled by Porter & Armstrong, has been impaired to the extent of $133,204, and the concern will probably wind up its affairs and go out of business.

Nickel-in-the-slot gambling machines have become so plentiful in Portland stores as to become a nuisance and the city marshal has ordered them all to be stopped.

WOMEN DO NOT TELL THE WHOLE TRUTH.

Modest Women Evade Certain Questions When Asked by a Male Physician, but Write Freely to Mrs. Pinkham.

"An eminent physician says that 'Women are not truthful, they will lie to their physicians.' This statement should be qualified; women do tell the truth, but not the whole truth to a male physician, but this is only in regard to those painful and troublesome disorders peculiar to their sex.

There can be no more terrible ordeal to a delicate, sensitive, refined woman than to be obliged to answer certain questions when those questions are asked, even by her family physician. This is especially the case with unmarried women.

This is the reason why thousands and thousands of women are now corresponding with Mrs. Pinkham. To this good woman they can and do give every symptom, so that she really knows more about the true condition of her patients through her correspondence than the physician who personally questions them. Perfect confidence and candor are at once established between Mrs. Pinkham and her patients.

Years ago women had no such recourse. Nowadays a modest woman asks help of a woman who understands women. If you suffer from any form of trouble peculiar to women, write at once to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and she will advise you free of charge.

And the fact that this great boon which is extended freely to women by Mrs. Pinkham is appreciated, the thousands of letters which are received by her prove. Many such grateful letters as the following are constantly pouring in:

"I was a sufferer from female weakness for about a year and a half. I have tried doctors and patent medicines, but nothing helped me. I underwent the horrors of an old fashioned cure, but received no benefit. My ailment was pronounced ulceration of the womb. I suffered from intense pains in the womb and ovaries and the backache was dreadful. I had leucorrhœa in its worst form. Finally I grew so weak I had to keep my bed. The pains were so hard as to almost cause spasms. When I could endure the pain no longer I was given morphine. My leucorrhœa grew short, and I gave up all hope of ever getting well. Thus I dragged along. At last I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. Her answer came promptly. I read carefully her letter, and concluded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking two bottles I felt much better; but after using six bottles I was cured. My friends think my cure almost miraculous. Her noble work is a blessing to broken-down women."—Grace E. Stanbury, Pratt, Kansas.

ALL OVER THE STATE.

When Maine was made a State in 1820, Massachusetts gave the new State a part of her military accoutrements, among which were muskets and cartridges which had seen service in the Revolutionary war. This material continued in the State arsenals at Portland and Bangor until 1868 or 1869, when the most of it was sold. The Daughters of the American Revolution are trying to collect some of these historic treasures. The children's society in Lewiston and Auburn has just been given a hat that served as a target to British bullets in '76.

A nice fat deer came out of the pasture with a lot of cows on the Old Orchard road Tuesday and was so tame that he came within 50 feet of some of the neighbors who saw him. Then he trotted off down the new Old Orchard road and disappeared in the woods.

Percy & Small, of Bath, will shortly commence operations on their new yard at the South End on the construction of a four masted schooner, which will be finished this fall. The dimensions are 211 feet keel, 43 beam, 20½ deep, will measure upwards of 2,500 tons. This craft will furnish work for quite a few Bath mechanics.

Marshal Kittredge, of Bath, received a letter Thursday morning from George W. Derby, who is now in the New York State reformatory, applying for assistance and aid in securing employment as his parole has been authorized to take effect in May, conditional upon his obtaining satisfactory employment. Derby writes that he has been in the institution since 1893 for the crime of forgery, and has come to the conclusion that he will now lead an honest, upright life in the future. He says he is a thorough machinist and has had experience in the printing trade and would do all he could to show himself worthy of any kindness shown to him. The marshal said he would like to assist the man, but there are plenty of Bath people who are now in need of employment who should be assisted.

What came very near a fatal accurrence transpired Wednesday at China. Mr. F. W. Gerald put two and one-half teaspoonfuls of Paris green in a pail of water and sprinkled some currant bushes. His wife, though knowing the fact of sprinkling the bushes with the poison, thoughtlessly picked and ate a handful of the currants. In a short time she had excruciating pains in the stomach and Dr. Nelson was sent for in hot haste. He found her in an alarming condition, her extremities cold and with little if any pulse. By prompt and energetic measures he was enabled after two hours to pronounce her out of danger.

Two Jews, Samuel and Julius Stockberg, brothers, had a little trouble at Biddeford Wednesday morning, and the result was that Samuel was landed in the police station on the charge of assault and battery. He was fined $3 and costs, amounting in all to $10.25. He settled and was allowed to go. It seems that family jars have been frequent in this family and the climax was reached Wednesday when stabwood was taken as weapons. A first class match was indulged in until Sam by a swinging blow landed hard on his brother's face. That settled it. At the trial the father said it was only boys' play and if the other brother had been in it, it would have lasted half an hour without anyone making any noise. This explanation hardly satisfied the judge so he fined him for his fun.

Late Wednesday afternoon as Janitor Sutherland, of Biddeford City Hall, was sitting in his office counting up the receipts of the institute, a woman approached the wicket and pushed a pocketbook under. It had a fat and plump appearance, and Mr. Sutherland opened it to see if he could not find something which would go to show who the owner was. There was a big sum of money, some jewelry and valuable papers, and included were some prescriptions of a death. He noticed two women in the corridors walking up and down look around as if they had lost something, and he went out and asked one of them, Mrs. Margaret Gilpatrick, who resides on Pool street, if she did not drop her pocketbook. She said "No," but later looked into her hand-bag and found that she had. She told what was in the book, and it was restored to her. He found the book before she lost it.

Elisha S. Bibber, of Portland, was found dead Thursday morning in his room at the Windsor Hotel in that city. Wednesday morning Mr. Bibber went to the Windsor Hotel and engaged a room. He went up to it immediately and nothing more was heard from him. Wednesday afternoon inquiries were made of the chambermaid for the boy to this room, but when it was found that the room was occupied nothing more was said. When morning came, however, and no sign of Mr. Bibber the clerk went up and knocked at the door but received no reply. The door was locked and the key was in the lock on the inside. As no sounds were heard it was deemed advisable to send for Coroner Perry in case anything should be the trouble. Upon his arrival the door was forced and Mr. Bibber was found in bed lying on his right side and dead. He had bled considerably from the nose and his death was evidently the result of a hemorrhage or some similar trouble. As Mr. Bibber had been dead some time it was useless to call a physician and Undertaker Rich was summoned and removed the body to his rooms. An inquest was not considered necessary.

Detective Heald, of the Maine Central, is soon to investigate the recent Lisbon robbery. The local officers say that there are a good many substantial clues to work on. It is known just where the robber stopped the night before the robbery and also where he had lived in the past. The man's horse has been recognized and the man's tracks examined and peculiarities noted. The stolen goods are now in the store room of the Lewiston city building.

One day this week two well dressed strangers, claiming to be from Philadelphia, called at the house of Mr. Joshua Roberts, a well to do farmer who resides on Saco street, Westbrook, and inquired if he would sell his farm. Mr. Roberts is advanced in years but remarkably active. He shrewdly suspected that the men were trying some confidence game and resolved to disappoint them in their object. When he replied that he would sell the man said they wanted it for the purpose of constructing a fish pond and requested Mr. Roberts to sign his name to a paper which they presented. Upon his refusal the men departed.

Presiding Elder E. O. Thayer, of Portland district, Methodist Episcopal churches, is carrying out the plan of having the board of trustees of all the churches in the district organized into incorporate bodies. The Methodist church at Saco is the first one to call a meeting to consider this matter and the other societies will not be slow in following suit. As incorporate bodies the parishes will be better able to transact in a proper manner the business of the societies, such as receiving bequests and fighting law suits.

Bath Independent: A baby mouse ran along the pavement of Custom House square and a big man coming along the walk saw it. The big man tried to stamp on the creature but the mouse though small was spry and the man had to dance quite a jig before succeeding in demolishing the animal. While the man was jumping wildly about a trim looking, modest maiden came down the steps of the granite fort and seeing the man, apparently in delirium tremens, (for she couldn't see the mouse) she nearly had hysterics. Finally the man picked up the mouse by the tail and waved it in the air as if to explain his conduct. Then the maiden threw the mouse down, the maid smiled and tripped along, the man grinned and departed and an old tom cat came around the corner and proudly walked off with the defunct cause of the excitement, while 25 men, who had seen, watching the episode, went about their business.

Deputy United States Marshal Emery arrived at Portland on the noon train Wednesday from Livermore Falls, with Frank Root or Io, custody. Routier was taken before Commissioner Bradley for a hearing. He pleaded not guilty. Deputy Sheriff Dewelly, of Livermore Falls, was called as a witness and testified that he went the defendant's house some time in February and after an extensive search found a trap under the kitchen stove, which he lifted and there found a quantity of liquor which he seized. The next witness called was Joe Bouthie, a Frenchman, who testified that he had book to defendant's house after liquor and paid for it. This completed the evidence for the government and Commissioner Bradley, finding probable cause ordered Routier to recognize in the sum of $100. Failing to do so he was committed to jail by Deputy United States Marshal Smith.

A Bath family party while out driving Monday afternoon had a singular experience with a crow in Lover's Retreat. The bird lighted on the tire of the carriage and then jumped on the horse's back and rode some distance without appearing the least bit frightened by the occupants in the carriage. It was a good sized crow.

Two Bath business men who claim to be experienced anglers tried their luck recently at trout fishing on a marsh in East Brunswick. After fishing patiently for an hour without getting any fish they decided to eat lunch. Great was their surprise and dismay when they found on drinking some of the water in the stream that it was exceedingly salt and then they realized that their supposed trout brook was a small branch of the New Meadows.

When a town gets so wrought up as to pass bicycle ordinances they are apt to be rather extreme in first draft. Such an one is before the Bath city council. It provides that a person shall not be found on a sidewalk with a wheel, whether riding, leading, carrying or trundling it. And yet, two women each wheeling a baby carriage may walk side by side and drive pedestrians into the gutter without exciting a thought of city ordinance.

Harry D. Macomber, aged 42, a widely known business man of Augusta, died Wednesday morning of heart trouble. He was a member of the firm of Macomber, Barr & Co., one of the best known insurance agencies in the State.

Don't mention this in the presence of George Brown, Sr., says the Gardiner Reporter-Journal, but it is said that a certain dry goods man while manipulating the lawn mower recently became somewhat warm and pulled off his Prince Albert, laying it carefully on the grass. In the engineering of the mower he forgot his coat and ran the machine onto it, taking off both tails of that garment as clean as tailor's shears would do the job. Such is life on a Maine farm.

The old friends of Elizabeth Scott (Mrs. Nathaniel) Hatch, who was born in Portland May 18, 1804, will be interested in knowing that she continues well and enjoyed the fragrance of some fine carnations sent her on her 93d birthday. She is nearly helpless and her sight is dim but she never speaks impatiently. Her lifelong cheerfulness and unselfishness have made her presence heaven to those around her, and now she is in her turn blessed with loving, tender care. Her grandfather was a soldier of the Revolution, under Col. E. Phinney, and two of her sons fought for the Union, one of them, Brevet-Major-General Hatch, having been in no less than 65 engagements and battles. Mrs. Hatch's present home is in Fort Madison, Iowa.

Wednesday William Tiseman, who is accused by Mrs. Morris, of East Deering, of assaulting her last Monday in the dooryard of Mr. Brown's house in East Deering, hunted up City Marshal Clark and gave himself up as he said he had understood that the marshal had a warrant for his arrest. Tiseman appeared before Judge Hopkins, of Deering's municipal court, and his case was put over until next Monday, when a hearing will be held. Miss Brown, so it is stated, has left her father's house and has taken up her residence with the friends of Mr. Morrill.

Last Saturday J. M. Johnson, of Knightville, died very suddenly and it was announced that his death was caused by heart disease. The next day there were rumors floating about the village that there was some doubt as to the cause of the death. Coroner Perry therefore ordered an autopsy which was held Monday afternoon by Dr. J. K. P. Rogers, of Knightville, and Dr. Brock, of Portland, with Undertaker Chenery in attendance. After a thorough examination the doctors decided that death was due to natural causes. He died with angina pectoris.

Mackerel seem to have struck the Maine coast in reasonably large numbers and Tuesday night a big haul was made at Church's pond off Harpswell. The fish was unusually large and averaged in weight about two pounds and a half. The fishermen captured about 1,800 weight, for which a ready market was found in that city. From present indications it appears as though mackerel would be plenty this summer and the fishermen are planning on reaping a rich harvest.

The York County Agricultural Society propose to make a firemen's muster one of the attractions of their exhibition. A hand tub contest is talked of and already two New Hampshire companies and one Maine company have signified their desire to attend. The officers of the society say they will hang up $500 prizes if the city will bear the expense of entertaining the companies.

The Portland board of health has received this communication from D. E. Salmon, chief of the bureau of animal industry of the United States department of agriculture on the tuberculin test: "In reply to your letter of the 1st instant, addressed to the secretary of agriculture, I would say that the experiments made by Dr. DeSchweinitz, of this bureau, as well as by others in this country and abroad, show that cows are not injured in the slightest degree by the injection of tuberculin, so long as the material has been carefully and properly made. Experiments with reference to the quantity of milk given by animals before and after the injection show that the variation in the amount is practically not worthy of consideration, unless the animal gives a reaction for tuberculosis. So far as the effect of tuberculin on healthy animals is concerned, there is not the slightest ground for fearing any bad results if the tuberculin used is reliable."

Some of the men at work in the fish house of J. D. Randall in Portland, made a rather peculiar discovery Wednesday afternoon. They were splitting cod and on opening a big fellow were greatly surprised to find a long, three cornered lead pencil in his stomach. The pencil was quite sharp and bore the date of 1895. Whether the fish sharpened the pencil, before swallowing it for the purpose of jotting down a few inside facts of the fishery question nobody knows and this problem will go down in history as being fully as great a mystery as the identity of the "unknown" who struck Billy Patterson some years back. The fishermen say that the pencil must have come from the pocket of some one who was drowned and sunk to the bottom for a cod will never touch anything floating on the surface of the water.

The residents of Perry, living near Boyden's lake, are somewhat excited over an alleged burglary committed in a large house there in which bedding, furniture, etc., were carted away in the night while the house was closed for a time. A second load had been gathered into a building near for the next evening's visit, but the neighbors heard of the break and were on the lookout. The wheel marks were followed in the mud and as suspicion rests on a man not far from the scene, an arrest will probably follow at an early date.

A correspondent says that caterpillars are very numerous in towns in the western part of Franklin county. Hundreds of poplar trees in the woods between Carthage and Weld are being stripped of their foliage. Orchards but little over the road through Weld seem to satisfy himself as to the truth of this statement—half eaten leaves are strewn all over the road and thousands of caterpillars can be seen on the trees. It certainly looks like another caterpillar year.

The milk bill in Belfast last year is estimated that 2,600,000 quarts were used, the quantity averaging 2,000 quarts daily, all of which in the eyes of the milk inspector and of some other people affords good reason for the continuance of his office.

A report is current in Foxcroft that the veteran conductor, Josiah F. Owen, of his own volition, will retire from his position on the Maine Central railroad between Foxcroft and Newport next October and remove his family to Dexter, where he formerly lived.

The Houlton summer school last season was one of the most successful ever held in Maine and it is proposed that this year's shall even eclipse it at once. All the leading men of the town are serving on the committee to arrange the big event. It is expected that the school will continue three weeks and that 300 teachers will attend.

Adjutant General Richards visited the master grounds at Augusta Tuesday, accompanied by Surgeon General W. J. Maybury, of Saco, and Major Talley, the surgeon of the 2d Regiment. The visit was for the purpose of looking the field over and to consider the advisability in some changes regarding the hospital accommodations. Nothing definite was decided upon.

The Maine Central has its posters up announcing the second excursion of the Maine Sportsmen's Fish and Game Association which will occur Monday and Tuesday, June 21 and 22. The excursion will be to the famous fishing region of the Rangeley lakes. The excursionists are offered the choice of going either by way of Farmington and Phillips or Rumford Falls and Rumford for a slight addition in fare to go one route and return the other. Low rates are offered from all stations along the line of the road.

Arrangements are being made for a meeting of fruit growers from different parts of the State in the room of the State Board of Agriculture, August, June 23, at 7.30 o'clock p. m. The object of the meeting is to consider matters connected with the marketing of fruit and the organization of a Maine Fruit Grower' Union. Assurances have been received that a representation of the American Fruit Growers' Union will be present to discuss the situation. Local speakers are also expected to participate. One fare over the railroads and reduced hotel rates are promised to those attending.

Governor Powers was at the State House Thursday, answering letters and attending to some personal business, having come to Augusta to attend the Centennial. He left for Bangor on the afternoon train. During his stay he made the following nominations, which will come up with other business for confirmation at the next meeting with the council, June 28: Disclosure commissioners, Harry Beedy, of Phillips; William Brown, of Hartland; Arthur Ritchie, of Liberty; Frank Wilson, of Sanford; Thomas S. Bridgham, of Buckfield; Charles O. Small, of Madison; Seth W. Fife, of Fryeburg; J. Merrill Lord, of Parsonfield; Charles Peabody, of Milbridge; M. V. McKusick, of Calais.

The annual meeting of the Maine Pharmaceutical Association will be held in Portland July 7 and 8. The Portland druggists will do the entertaining and as usual will do it well. Wednesday evening a concert will be given at the private parlors of the Falmouth Hotel and an excellent programme is being arranged. Thursday morning the delightful sail down the bay will be taken on the new steamer Aucocisco and a shore dinner served at Harpswell. Many visiting druggists from other States are expected, and the attendance will be unusually large on account of the new pharmacy law passed last winter and the corresponding amount of interest taken by members of the association in it.

William J. Lannigan, a well known lumber prospector and riverman, tells the Kennebec Journal that he believes the spruce borer has come again for another five years' sojourn in the Maine woods. Mr. Lannigan says that he believes that some sections or townships are infested by these borers from 15 to 20 per cent. of their value. Some sections or townships are entirely free as yet. The presence of the borer at this time is known to only a few prominent prospectors. To gain as much knowledge as possible on the subject a Journal reporter visited several of the prominent timberland owners in Bangor, the other day. Most of the people called upon knew nothing whatever of the presence of the borer at this time, and all were inclined to believe it a needless scare to circulate the story.

STATE OF MAINE.

Penobscot ss. Court of Insolvency.

In the case of SANFORD F. JUDKINS of Newport, in said County, Insolvent Debtor.

Respectfully represents Matthew Laughlin, of Bangor, in said County, that he is Assignee of the estate of said Insolvent Debtor, that he has filed in said Court of Insolvency his first account, and offered the same for allowance; that there is in his hands an amount of money, as will appear by said account, for distribution among the creditors of said debtor and that a dividend will be declared upon the approval of the same by the Court.

Wherefore your petitioner prays that a time and place may be appointed when and where he may declare such dividend, and that your Honor, upon hearing, may approve and allow the same and order it to be entered of record.

Dated this twenty-sixth day of May, A. D. 1897.

MATTHEW LAUGHLIN,
Assignee of said Sanford F. Judkins.

BICYCLES CAPTURED.

Sidewalk Riders Must Pay the Penalty.

Complaints concerning bicycling on prohibited sidewalks and immoderate riding on those open to riders have been numerous lately and last evening several of the police officers started out in citizen's clothes to put a stop to it. During the evening they captured nine wheels belonging to riders who were violating the rules and the owners will have to settle with the court today. Forest avenue, Broadway and vicinity and Ohio street were the principal places at which captures were made.

All bicycle riders should carefully read the new city ordinance and not only find out where they are allowed to ride but also to decide that they will never violate the regulations. Otherwise it will only be a matter of time when they will be obliged to pay for their indiscretion. Upon no sidewalks are bicyclists allowed to ride at an immoderate pace.

LOST BY A RUN.

Augustas Make It Two Victories In Our Own Ballwick—This Time 5 to 4.

"Ifs" are generally unsatisfactory but it rather seems to us just at this time when the Bangors repose solidly at the foot of the list that a little indulgence in "ifs" would be as nearly justifiable as possible. And therefore we like to remark that if the Bangors could have batted just a little bit yesterday when men were on bases Augusta would have been beaten. The boys face 'em out finely with no one on a base but the moment they see a fellow suffer on base they seem to lose their nerve.

It was an interesting game though. The weather was fine. Cronin pitched a pretty good game but Augusta's hitting runs and Bangor's didn't. Hayes' arm seemed to be off yesterday and he retired in the second in favor of Mackey after three clean steals were made. Mackey did good work and batted well.

Cronin made a good play in covering first in the 8th. The throw was low but he scooped it with one hand and touched the base with the ball.

Schroongost's catching and throwing were fine. He nailed four trying to steal second.

Connor was put out of the game for kicking.

Meagher made a good catch in the first. Hu and Flack were after the ball and Flack dropped to get out of his way. Meagher fell over him but held the ball.

In the 6th Butman hit the ball in front of the plate but Cronin made a great throw and got him at first.

In the 4th Wise led off with a three bagger, but couldn't score. He was thrown out at the plate on trying to steal on Meagher's grounder to Delaney.

In the first of the eighth Bangor tied the score and the crowd made lots of noise. Birmingham and Mackey made hits, McCarthy gave Wise a base on balls, Casey hit to the pitcher and Birmingham scored. Meagher flew out to center and Mackey scored. McKenzie hit a ball too slow for Veitch to handle and Wise scored from second by fast running, and the crowd howled. Trainor was hit by a pitched ball but Cronin struck out.

In the last half Gildea hit a liner to Trainor and was out. Butman was given a base on balls. Fogarty flew out to Casey. Butman stole second, Mackey throwing to the left of the base. McKenzie returned the ball while Crogin's back was turned and Butman took third. McCarthy hit a weak fly into right. Casey ran in hard but the ball bounded by and went to the ditch, allowing three bases. Hanscomb was thrown out by Trainor. Augusta one run ahead.

In the ninth after Flack and Birmingham had been retired on flies, Mackey got to second on a wild throw by Veitch, but Wise put up a high foul for Schroongost and Bangor had lost another interesting game. The score:

Notes.

This afternoon the Lewistons play here. A large crowd should attend to see if our team can't break the spell and go up.

The Augustas call their catcher with the weird name "Sockey," for short. A coacher would get paralysis of the jaw trying to speak his real name in a hurry.

Birmingham's "Come, boys, make it lively," sounds good. There should be more of it, both talk and action.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Sages.

There was another amusingly entertained audience at the Opera House last evening to see the performance given by the Sages, hypnotists. The entire programme was well received. The Sages will give only one more performance in this city, that of this evening.

Wormwood's Famous Monkey Theatre.

Animals that do everything but talk will be at the Opera House all next week with daily matinees, commencing on Tuesday, June 15. This entertainment has delighted large audiences of people in the United States, England and through continental Europe. A feast of fun, it is also said to be very interesting throughout and large numbers will probably attend. The amusement world has never before witnessed such a unique and mirthless fun, provoking aggregation, it is said. Popular prices; afternoons 15 cents, evenings 15 and 25 cents. In addition to the peformance given by the monkeys there will be a troupe of educated dogs, also Edison's latest invention of animated photography, the Protoscope, and Marlowe and Regan, Maine's favorite comedians. The sale of seats opened Friday.

For pains in the stomach, bowels or kidneys use Johnson's Anodyne Liniment internally.

HEALTHY, HAPPY BABIES are generally the offspring of healthy, happy mothers. It would hardly be natural if it were otherwise. The baby's health and happiness depend on the mother's. The mother's condition during gestation particularly exerts an influence on the whole life of the child. If a woman is not careful at any other time, she certainly should be during the period preliminary to parturition. It is a time when greatest care is necessary, and Nature will do the better for a little help. Even strong, well women will find themselves feeling better, their time of labor shortened and their pains lessened if they will take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. To those whom troubles, peculiarly feminine, have rendered in any degree weak, it will prove a veritable blessing. It is a good, general tonic for the whole system, and at any time will promote the proper and regular action of all the organs. It is a medicine for women only and for all complaints confined to their sex is of inestimable value.

Telegraphic Notes.

The steamer Windward started again from London for Franz Josef Land Thursday in order to bring back from the Arctic region the members of the Jackson-Harmsworth expedition, who have now spent three winters at their little Arctic settlement, Elmwood, near Cape Flora, where they erected an observatory 2,000 feet above sea level. During the present summer the expedition was to make an attempt to reach the highest point north through an opening in Queen Victoria sea, the open water discovered by Jackson. The Windward was enthusiastically cheered by a large crowd as she made her way down the Thames. Included in her freight are four Kayakas, made by Dr. Nansen for Jackson, and a folding boat intended for Prof. Andree, who expects to cross the Arctic regions this summer in a ballon from Franz Josef Land.
